October 23, 2018
Middle Tennessee State University
Murfreesboro, Tennessee

The Movement '68 Symposium seeks to explore student activism on MTSU's campus and college campuses across Tennessee from the 1960s to the present day. The Albert Gore Research Center is pleased to invite undergraduate and graduate students to submit papers on the history of student activism, oppression, black student life and organizations, and Lost Cause memory in places of higher education in Tennessee. Public history projects encouraged.

Topic ideas:

- What methods did student activists employ to achieve their goals and demands?
- How did the college administration respond to these movements? How did the surrounding local community respond?
- In what ways were student athletes involved in protest movements?
