The History of the University

Middle Tennessee State University began as Middle Tennessee State Normal School, opening its doors on Monday, September 11, 1911.

In 1909, the Tennessee General Assembly passed legislation to improve the system of public education by establishing a General Education Fund and creating three normal schools, one in each of the three grand divisions of the state. These institutions were to establish teaching standards or “norms,” hence the name. The Murfreesboro school began with four buildings on a dusty site that just a year earlier had been farmland.

Opening with a two-year program for training teachers, Middle Tennessee State Normal School evolved into a four-year teachers college in 1925 with the power of granting the Bachelor of Science degree. In 1943, the General Assembly designated the institution a state college. This new status marked a sharp departure from the founding purpose and opened the way for expanding curricular offerings and programs. In 1965, the institution advanced to university status.

Several significant milestones chart the progress from normal school to university and beyond. During the progressive movement from a two-year normal to a university, several significant milestones may be identified. Responding to the expressed needs of the institution’s service area, the Graduate School was established in 1951. The Bachelor of Arts was added that same year. To effect better communications and improve administrative supervision, the schools concept was introduced in 1962.

As MTSU developed and grew, new degree programs included the Doctor of Arts in 1970 and the Specialist in Education in 1974. Library resources dramatically increased, and sophisticated computer services aided instruction and administration. A highly trained faculty enabled the University to continue growth in program offerings. In 1991, the University's six schools-five undergraduate and the graduate school-became colleges. In 1998, MTSU's Honors Program became the Honors College, the first in the state. In 2006, the Division of Continuing Studies and Public Service changed to the College of Continuing Education and Distance Learning. In 2002, approval was granted to redesignate three D.A. programs to Doctor of Philosophy programs, and subsequently five others have been approved. In the 2010 reorganization, Continuing Education and Distance Learning became the University College, and the College of Education and Behavioral Science became the College of Education and the College of Behavioral and Health Sciences. The Doctor of Education was approved in 2012.

Since 1911, MTSU has graduated more than 100,000 students. Despite the University's growth from a campus of 100 acres, 125 students, and a faculty of 18, to an academic city of over 500 acres, more than 23,000 students, and a faculty of more than 950, the institution is still essentially a "people's university" with a concern for the diverse needs of the area that it serves. In 1986, James McGill Buchanan ('40) became the first MTSU alumnus to be awarded the Nobel Prize. Buchanan received the Nobel Memorial Prize in Economic Sciences for his development of the theory of public choice, a way of studying the expenditure of public funds. In 2011 the University celebrated it's Centennial year with the theme "A Tradition of Excellence." As the University looks forward to the next 100 years, the theme is exemplified as everyone in the University community-students, faculty, staff, alumni, and friends-strives to be the best.

ADMISSION STANDARDS

(Undergraduate)

First Time Freshmen

Admission to MTSU for first-time freshmen is straightforward; there are two possible paths--guaranteed admission and admission by review:

For guaranteed admission, applicants must have completed the required high school units and must present one of the following:

- 3.0 GPA, OR
- Minimum composite ACT score of 22 (Equivalent SAT of 1020-Critical Reading & Math), OR
- Minimum 2.7 GPA plus ACT score of 19 (Equivalent SAT of 900- Critical Reading & Math)
- Transfer students need at least 24 hours with a 2.0 cumulative GPA for guaranteed admission. Any student, freshman or transfer, not meeting the guaranteed standard has the opportunity to go through a review process to determine admissibility.
- Additional information can be found by visiting http://www.mtsu.edu/how-to-apply/index.php

The student's diploma/ transcript must reflect a distribution of college preparatory courses, such as those required in the core elements of the Tennessee High School Diploma, displayed below:

Admission by review - Students who don't meet the requirements for guaranteed admission can still be considered for conditional admission through a review process. Students will be asked to submit a personal statement form. A review committee will assess the personal statement and take into consideration the student's potential for success by evaluating factors such as high school course work, honors or advanced placement, dual credit, and extenuating circumstances.

- Graduates of Unapproved or Unaccredited High Schools

  Applicants who graduate from unapproved or unaccredited high schools in Tennessee can be considered for admission through the review process. These students must achieve an ACT composite score of 22 or higher or present a GED test score of 450 or higher or a HiSET test score of 10 or higher. The review will include GED or HiSET credentials as well as other special interests, skills, and non-academic factors as explained on the Personal Statement Form which can be completed at the point of application.

(Graduate)

General Admissions Policies

- ADMISSION PROCEDURES:
  Admission to graduate studies at Middle Tennessee State University is two-fold, entailing both admission to the College of Graduate and, in the case of degree-seeking students, admission to an individual academic program. Every applicant initially applies to the College of Graduate Studies. Upon receipt of all required materials, and assuming the applicant meets the admission standards of the College of Graduate Studies, the application is then forwarded to the individual program for consideration. Applications for admission should be completed online. Paper application is also available in PDF form.

Note: In accepting admission to the College of Graduate Studies, a graduate student assumes responsibility for knowing and complying with the regulations and procedures set forth in the graduate catalog, as well as any amendments or revisions which may ensue.

- DEGREE REQUIREMENT:
  Graduate applicants must have earned a bachelor's degree. Exceptions are those seeking the Doctorate or Specialist degrees, which may require a prior master's degree.

- GPA REQUIREMENTS:
  All applicants to the College of Graduate Studies must have an overall undergraduate GPA of 2.75 (on a 4.1 scale) to be considered for unconditional admission (see also conditional admission). Applicants who attended graduate school at another institution must have a minimum cumulative GPA of 3.00 on all graduate work and a minimum of 2.75 on all undergraduate work to be considered for unconditional admission. International students on an F-1 visa must meet requirements for unconditional admission.

Note: Individual programs may have higher GPA requirements than the College of Graduate Studies.

- OFFICIAL TEST SCORES:
  Applicants should consult the programs for individual program admission requirements. Additionally, individual programs determine which graduate test they require, such as the GRE, GMAT, or MAT.
- DEADLINES:
  While the College of Graduate Studies in general does not have an application deadline, we do impose a submission date each semester to ensure that our coordinators have sufficient time to process your application. At least three months prior to the anticipated date of registration, all degree-seeking applicants must submit the following materials to the College of Graduate Studies. Therefore, prospective students applying after the submission date may be subject to a late registration fee.

Note: Be advised that some programs do enforce admittance deadlines. Check with your desired program for these dates. Applications may take up to 1 month to process.

- Once all of the required materials are submitted, it is up to the individual programs to decide whether or not they wish to admit the student. Programs may admit or reject a student for whatever reasons they see fit. Because one program has rejected you does not mean you cannot apply to another program. If the program recommends admission, the paperwork is then returned to the College of Graduate Studies office and an official letter of admission is sent to the student. Students may check admission status by going through PipelineMT.

Note: Once you are enrolled as a graduate student, you are required to maintain an overall 3.0 GPA in your graduate credit course work to remain in good academic standing.

CENTERS AND CHAIRS

Centers of Excellence

Endowed Chairs

Chairs of Excellence

Centers of Excellence

The General Assembly and the Governor of Tennessee together announced in 1984 the creation of a new Centers of Excellence program for Tennessee public higher education. The Centers, to be selected through a statewide competitive process, would build on the research strengths of the Tennessee Board of Regents universities and the campuses of the University of Tennessee. Their purpose would be to focus the capabilities of public higher education on service to the people of Tennessee by expanding the state's research base, thereby increasing its national and international stature and its economic competitiveness. MTSU is the site of three Centers of Excellence.

THE CENTER FOR HISTORIC PRESERVATION

Established 1984

Director, Dr. Carroll Van West

The Center for Historic Preservation was established in 1984, and was part of a comprehensive statewide education reform program in higher education where the state legislature created specialized research centers to involve and support leading academic programs. The Center's designation acknowledged the national reputation of Middle Tennessee State University's Historic Preservation program, established in 1973, and its affiliated Mid-South Humanities Project, a regional heritage education program funded by the National Endowment for the Humanities from 1978-1983. These two programs are the foundation blocks for the Center's multi-layered contributions to the state, region, and nation for the past 25 years.

Hundreds of preservationists who work throughout the nation received their formative training through the academic program and by active engagement in the Center's many projects and programs. Center faculty and staff teach historic preservation classes, directing over 140 graduate theses and dissertations. The Center constantly strives to place students in appropriate positions, to continue their professional mentoring as their careers develop.

THE CENTER FOR POPULAR MUSIC

Director, Dr. Greg Reish

The Center for Popular Music (CPM) is an archive and research center devoted to the study of popular and vernacular music in the United States and the world. It was established in 1985 as one of sixteen Centers of Excellence at universities in the Tennessee Board of Regents system. The center's mission is to promote research and scholarship in popular music and to foster an appreciation of America's diverse musical culture and its global reach. To carry out this mission, the CPM maintains a large research library and archive, presents public programs that interpret various aspects of American vernacular music, engages in original research projects, and disseminates the results of research through publications in various media.

MTSU Undergraduate Catalog/Centers

The CPM's library and archive is one of the largest and best popular music research collections in the world. Materials in the center's archive and library fall into three broad categories. First are extensive holdings of the various types of media in which music has been fixed and sold as a commodity. These include print materials such as sheet music, song books, song broadsides and songsters, and sound recordings in formats ranging from cylinders to compact discs. The center's sound archive is one of the largest in the country and consists of more than 200,000 commercial sound recordings as well as many hours of unique unpublished recordings of music and interviews. The CPM's sheet music collection of approximately 110,000 items is the largest in the Southeast, and its library of gospel songbooks is one of the most extensive of any repository not associated with a religious organization. Second are various materials that are needed to study popular and vernacular music in all its musical, cultural, historical, technological, and commercial contexts, including such items as photographs, posters, playbills, concert programs, trade catalogs, music manuscripts, news clippings, and personal papers of musicians, songwriters, and business people. Third are books, periodicals, and other reference materials about popular music. The center has one of the largest and most comprehensive libraries of books and periodicals about popular music anywhere.

Materials in the center's collection do not circulate but are available to anyone doing research on popular music. Resources support undergraduate, graduate, and faculty research in a variety of disciplines and departments. In keeping with one of the aims of the Centers of Excellence program, the Center for Popular Music serves as a research resource for people far beyond the bounds of the University. Center staff members have fielded research queries from every state in the union and from more than thirty foreign countries. Authors, journalists, media producers, performers, and students writing dissertations have all made use of the center's archive and library.

Endowed Chairs

Several academic programs are enriched through the establishment of Chairs dedicated to the support of a particular discipline. The chairholders may be full-time faculty members or may be individuals from the appropriate business or professional field who are on campus for special seminars or lecture series. Two Chairs, funded by gifts to the University Foundation, are administered through the Economics and Finance Department. The third is housed in the Business Communication and Entrepreneurship Department.

THE MARTIN CHAIR OF INSURANCE
Established 1982
Chairholder, Kenneth W. Hollman

The Martin Chair of Insurance was founded by a group of alumni and friends to upgrade and enhance the insurance curriculum at Middle Tennessee State University. It was named in honor of Thomas T. Martin, a Murfreesboro insurance agent who was a highly successful underwriter for almost 60 years. MTSU's insurance program provides comprehensive collegiate training for graduates who plan to work as professionals in the insurance industry. The well-rounded program is designed to hasten the personal development and professional preparation of students and to assure the industry of prospective employees with degrees in insurance. As a consequence, training costs for area employers are reduced because they are able to place new employees in a productive capacity much more quickly. Because insurance is an increasingly important and complex segment of economic activity in Tennessee, there is a growing need in the state for college graduates with superior training in insurance. The growth and development of every community in Tennessee can be encouraged through the interest, ability, and initiative of its insurance personnel.

THE WEATHERFORD CHAIR OF FINANCE
Established 1986
Chairholder, William F. Ford

The Weatherford Chair of Finance was established to honor Jack O. Weatherford, one of Tennessee's and the nation's leading community bankers. A decorated Navy veteran of World War II, Mr. Weatherford completed his education at Middle Tennessee State University and the University of Tennessee-Knoxville. He began his banking career at the Murfreesboro Bank and Trust Company, where he rose through the ranks to chair and CEO. Holding top positions in national banking organizations, he led his bank through a series of mergers involving acquisitions of smaller area banks. The Weatherford Chair of Finance provides specialized training for students interested in banking careers. It also operates a placement service for such students, provides scholarships for them, and conducts research and seminars on topics of interest to the banking community.

THE WRIGHT TRAVEL CHAIR OF ENTREPRENEURSHIP
Established 2007
Chairholder, William C. McDowell

The Wright Travel Chair of Entrepreneurship was established in 2007 by Pam Wright, founder and CEO of Nashville-based Wright Travel, Tennessee's largest travel agency. Through the endowment of a faculty position, Wright's gift touches hundreds of students and furthers the research concerning the contributions of successful entrepreneurs to this country's economic growth, including jobs expansion. The educational features of the endowed Chair of Entrepreneurship enable future MTSU graduates to understand what entrepreneurship entails and whether it is the right path for them.

James E. Walker Library

In 1912, the first library for Middle Tennessee State Normal School was established by newly hired librarian Betty Avent Murfree. She started the collection with donations of 75 books from persons both on and off campus. The library was housed on the third floor of Old Main overlooking the main entrance, and its collection eventually grew to 2,000 volumes. By 1925, a separate library building was needed for the newly named Middle Tennessee State Teachers College. Designed to accommodate 20,000 volumes, the structure was erected across from Old Main on the site where Peck Hall now stands. In 1958, a new library building was constructed at a cost of $500,000. Located east of the older library and between the Science Building and Jones Hall, this new building was to hold a growing collection of up to 150,000 volumes. It was named the Andrew L. Todd Library. In 1970, an addition to Todd Library was required to meet the needs of a growing university. Although this building was designed to contain 225,000 volumes, over 600,000 volumes filled its shelves.

In spring 1999, MTSU again opened a new library to meet the needs of a rapidly growing student body. It was designed to accommodate a collection of over one million bound volumes and provide seating for 2,600. The library includes a four-floor atrium that serves as the central organizing element for the interior spaces and brings controlled, natural daylight to readers and study spaces in the building. In fall 2001, the new library, a visible sign of the University's commitment to quality education, was named James E. Walker Library in honor of a former MTSU president who was a friend of the library, a leader in higher education, and a partner in securing funding for the new building.

The building infrastructure includes an extensive electronic information distribution system connected to the campus-wide, fiber-optic backbone. Library instruction rooms are equipped to support multimedia instruction for accessing and retrieving data from electronic information resources. With over 350 computer workstations, laptop computer checkout, a variety of study areas, and responsive services, the library is focused on student learning and faculty research support. The building i ng is open 110 hours per week with resources available at all times through web access.
