Set the Stage

“... today’s college experience isn’t what it used to be. Instructors in every discipline are rethinking both content and delivery, engaging students with new pedagogical strategies in modern learning spaces. Yet, as institutions invest in classroom technology, adoption doesn’t just happen. It requires institutional support, professional development and cross-campus collaboration.”

Content Chunking

Strategy to break a concept into bite-size information pieces

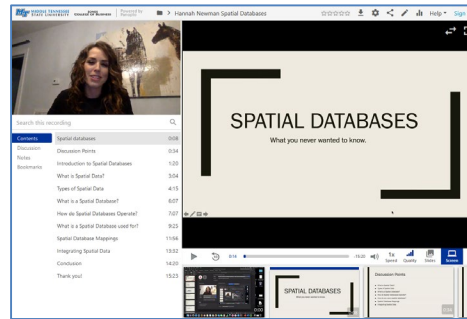

- Identify learning objectives
- Create a hierarchy of learning objectives
- Organize from simple to complex
- Separate need-to-know vs nice-to-know
- One screen at a time – not too much information
- Presented in an orderly manner with a logical flow
- One chapter or topic per recording day
